The guests were: Miss Lucile Harderode, Prin. Landis Tanager, H. E. Miller, Clarence Shoemaker, S. H. Koontz, John Hughes, Lloyd Weisel and Fred Arnold; orchestra—A. Sammel, E. A. Barnett, O'Connell Weber, H. O. Hafer, G. R. Shuck, G. W. Koontz, Frank Shuck and Raymond Sammel.

President James acted as toastmaster and toasts were responded to by Prof. Tanager, H. E. Miller and Egbert Imler.

Fruit Growers' Meeting

The fruit growers of this vicinity will meet in the Grange Hall at Buffalo Mills Saturday evening, May 22, at 6:30 o'clock. The topics for discussion are: "Should orchards be fertilized, and if so what kind should be used?" "Which is the more destructive to the fruit grower, the apple scab or the codling moth?" These topics will be discussed by all present. Let everyone join the association and aid in growing and producing better fruit for the market. Buffalo Mills, May 12.

Hurt in Auto Accident

Editor and Mrs. B. W. Peck and niece, and C. W. Peck, of McConnellsburg, while en route to Bedford last Friday afternoon in the former's auto, met with an accident near Everett when a front wheel came off the machine. None of the occupants were thrown out except Mrs. Peck who suffered a broken arm, numerous bruises and cuts. She was brought to this place and is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Stiver, South Richard Street.

W. C. T. U. at Saxton

Last Friday night Mrs. J. B. Masters of Pittsburg gave an address in the Reformed Church at Saxton in the interests of the W. C. T. U. An organization was effected, with the following officers: President, Mrs. F. W. McGuire; Vice President, Mrs. P. A. Barnett, Recording Secretary, Mrs. H. C. Rose; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. W. W. E. Shannon; Treasurer, Mrs. S. B. Stoler. Branches were organized at Loysburg on Saturday and at Woodbury on Monday. She will be at Pleasantville Sunday night, Bedford on May 17 and Rainsburg May 18.

Minstrel a Success

A crowded house greeted the performers in the minstrel in Assembly Hall last Thursday evening, which was a success in every particular. The solo parts by Mrs. H. B. Strock, Misses Nelle Ritchey and Josephine Davidson, H. C. James, W. J. Davidson, Fred Arnold and Lloyd Weisel, the quartets and choruses were well rendered and the music was especially good. The Stationary Express was a source of much amusement, the individual parts being performed in a creditable manner. $18.35 was realized from the sale of tickets but considerable expense was incurred.

MENTIONED IN BRIEF

Town Talk and Neighborhood Notes Tersely Told

MANY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Gleaned From Various Sources—Little Points Picked Up By Vigilant Reporters.

Resolutions

In recognition of the late publication by The Gazette of a list of soldiers now living in Bedford County, the local Grand Army Post this week adopted the following:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Post and of the soldiers throughout the county is due to the Bedford Gazette for its publication of a full list of all the soldiers who served in the several wars of our country, now living within the county.

The following complimentary action was taken in regard to Frank McCoy's late compilation of the list of living soldiers in Bedford County:

Whereas, Comrade Frank McCoy of our Post has, at great labor and sacrifice to himself, collected and arranged for publication, a complete and systematic "List of the living soldiers residing in Bedford County to February 6, 1909," therefore, be it

Resolved, That we heartily acknowledge our debt of gratitude to him for his devotion and service to the cause of the soldier element of our county and their friends; that we commend him for his unselfish patriotism in undertaking and accomplishing so arduous a task, and we congratulate him on the excellent manner in which his work was performed. It is a valuable and praiseworthy contribution to the history of the county, for which we tender him our sincere thanks.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Affairs at Capital—Tariff Debate Continues.

Washington, D. C., May 13, 1909. The tariff debate continues to occupy the center of the stage in Washington and as it proceeds bitterness between the Republicans increases rather than diminishes. Senator Aldrich, Chairman of the Finance Committee, has undertaken to read out of the party every Republican who refuses to accept the word of that committee as final, while Senator Dilliver and his colleague, Senator Cummins, have bidden open defiance to the Republican leader.

As there will be many interesting and important votes on the tariff bill it is perhaps just as well to explain here the method of "pairing" customary in both houses of Congress. Whenever a Senator or Representative finds it necessary to be absent when a vote is taken, he seeks to find a colleague whose views are so far opposed to his own that the two men are reasonably certain to cast opposing votes on every subject, and having done so he arranges with that colleague that whenever a vote shall occur, during the absence of one or other of them, the other shall refrain from voting, merely arising when his name is called and stating that he has a general pair with the absent Senator or Representative. In this way the vote is not lost to the side whose member is absent. As practically every member of Congress finds it from time to time impossible, or at least extremely inconvenient, to be present throughout a session in which a roll call is liable to occur and so often has to ask for a pair, he will, of course, never refuse to make one when asked to do so by another.

Representative Murphy of Missouri, has become a thorn in the flesh of the Republican leaders. Speaker Cannon seemed to assume that a snarl and a vigorous flourish of the gavel in his left hand would drive Mr. Murphy back into obscurity and frighten him out of any annoying insistence that his charges of malfeasance, against Judges McPherson and Phillips of the Western Circuit Court of Missouri, be given serious consideration. Mr. Murphy, it will be recalled, introduced a resolution calling upon the Judiciary Committee to investigate certain acts of these jurists with a view to instituting formal impeachment proceedings. Mr. Cannon promptly referred the resolution to the Committee on Rules, of which he is Chairman, where he expected to bury it for all time. Frank Hagerman, a friend of the Speaker, and the attorney for a number of western railroads, gave to the press an interview in which he characterized Mr. Murphy's charges as "an outrageous tissue of misrepresentation by one who has no knowledge of the facts," and Mr. Cannon assumed that Mr. Murphy had received this quietus. When the House met again, however, Mr. Murphy rising to a question of personal privilege, which of course made it impossible for the Speaker to decline to recognize him, denounced Mr. Hagerman, reiterated his charges and appealed to Representative Rucker of Missouri to confirm them, which Mr. Rucker did, saying that Judge Phillips should have been impeached twenty years ago. Mr. Cannon has now referred the entire matter to the Judiciary Committee, which will not be created until next winter, and his action probably will be postponed until the action is taken at the next session of Congress.

Members of the House, however, such as Messrs. Chandler and United States Circuit Judge have been in collision with the railroads, it will be hardly possible to avoid an investigation of Congress meets its regular session. Mr. Murphy's action on the question of a majority of the House members, if it is taken, will be to purify the House.

HECKERMAN LETTER

A Visit to a Great Cotton Centre—
Severe Storms.

Helena, Ark.
This city has 15,000 souls living within its corporate limits. They claim many things for the city, among them the best sewerage system in the south, the death rate for 1908 being but one to every thousand and among the white folks. This is also the port of entry for all steamboats that ply the Mississippi, and if your readers could all see this river as the writer has during the past week they would think it quite a stream.

This city of Helena is located midway between Kansas City and New Orleans, on the only elevated spot of ground on the west side of the Mississippi below the Missouri line. It is in one of the best farming districts in the whole south, and they claim more standing timber, which is accessible, than any other city under the laws of the U. S. They claim 20,000 square miles of heavily timbered lands, and in this they have several varieties of oak, gum, red and white elm, cypress, walnut and cottonwood.

This is the centre of the best cotton growing district in the south, and the cotton sells for a higher average price than that grown elsewhere. There are five lines of railroads centering here, yet Dad can't get out 25 mules to a small town without losing twelve hours of valuable time. This city has some forty factories employing 3,000 people, who are well paid, prosperous and satisfied that their employers shall have good returns for the money invested in their various enterprises. One thing certain is they never have any strikes down here in Helena. There may be seen today many bales of cotton being hauled along the well paved streets. Two hundred and fifty thousand bales were handled and sold here during 1908, and this must be at least one-half of what is handled in the state. Here every one talks cotton; it is the staple here like wheat and corn at home. One thing is certain, and that is that Helena is a very fast growing city. Its health and its low tax rate are great inducements for persons to locate here. Real estate has advanced full fifty per cent. in five years and I note a marked difference in its appearance in two years. The city water comes from artesian wells 500 feet deep, and 'tis said to be absolutely pure.

Four banks, and very many churches, also good schools, are to be found here. Helena offers the very lowest freight rates to manufacturing plants by reason of the competition between the five railroads, the Mississippi and its tributaries of navigable rivers. In fact from what I can learn there is no city that has more to offer the manufacturer than Helena. They say they will have a bridge across the Mississippi in the near future.

The Cleburne Hotel is the principal one of the city; 'tis the traveling man's home, and is owned and run by J. C. Schmitt, a prince of good fellows, who, like your Bedford landlords, is ever ready and willing to assist you along the road to happiness by making you feel at home. The rates are steep, the feed tolerable. The war cry down here is "Get to Helena quick if you want to make money."

Brinkley, Ark., some thirty-five miles out, was razed to the ground March 8 by a cyclone. Only a very few houses were left standing and these were all damaged in some way. The town used to have 2,500 people. This cyclone struck it about seven in the evening. Today most of the people that have remained are living in tents, and it looked very odd to me to see this. I had read of the disaster but had forgotten all about it until I saw the tents. We have had some heavy rains, mostly at night, of late and these have raised the Mississippi to a frightful stage. The valleys for miles are flooded and one sees water as far as the eye can carry. I am off for the north via Cairo, Ill.

Since writing the above we have had a very severe storm in this section. Paper says many have been killed by having buildings collapse on them. The storm was severest in Tennessee and Arkansas. Some thirty have been reported so far as having been killed, while many have been injured. Through Kentucky much damage was done, although no loss of life has been reported from that state that I know of, although the farmers lost heavily in death of live stock and the overturning of barns and outbuildings. Memphis suffered severely; wires were down, trains all late, and along the Southern about half a mile of track was washed away. The storm has passed and the air is delightful. I can readily see the difference in vegetation as I come north. Yours, etc.,

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of Bedridden People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric acid circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney pills.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ills.

No need to take the statement of someone living far away as evidence. Here's a case right in this locality. Mrs. Josiah Cook, First Ave., Hyndman, Pa., says: "About a year ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease and lumbago. A constant dull pain across the small of my back made it almost impossible for me to attend to my housework and my general health was run down. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and I obtained so much benefit from the first box that I continued, until I received complete relief. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, knowing them to act just as represented."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

BASEBALL FAN

Will Find Big Treat in Special North American Issue.

Richer in information, more beautiful as to appearance and crammed fuller of entertainment, The North American's special annual baseball supplement, to be issued Sunday, May 16, will eclipse all three of its predecessors.

The first page in colors is an attractive arrangement, containing photographs of every player of the Phillies and Athletics, an illustration well worth framing. The back page in colors shows the difficulties of making baseball's most dangerous play, tagging a runner.

James C. Isaminger, The North American's baseball humorist, contributes a story on the era of the silk-stocking ball player. It is illustrated by Cartoonist Hoban.

Every player in the Tristate League is photographed, there is a page devoted to the Atlantic League and all of the other leagues; New York State, North Penn., Delaware County, Bucks County, etc., have representations.

School, college and independent baseball in state and city; the amateur game as played by the youngsters on the lot and in the park come in for liberal attention, the rosters of 1,000 teams being carried.

The batting and fielding averages of the big leagues will be found only one of many valuable features that will make this a reference guide for the whole season.

Orders should be placed at once, as last year's edition was quickly exhausted, and the demand for the present supplement will be even greater.

If you expect to get the original Carbolic Witch Hazel Salve, you must be sure it is DeWitt's Carbolic Witch Hazel Salve. It is good for cuts, burns and bruises, and is especially good for piles. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

Sick headache, constipation and biliousness are relieved by Rings Little Liver Pills. They cleanse the system. Do not gripe. Price 25c. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

When Washington Swore

It was at the battle of Monmouth that Washington aroused the admiration of an officer who overheard a few pungent and sulphurous exclamations from the father of his country. "Yes, sir; he swore on that day till the leaves shook on the trees—charming, delightful! Never have I enjoyed such swearing before or since. Sir, on that ever-memorable day he swore like an angel from Heaven."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A CARD

This is to certify that all druggists are authorized to refund your money if Foley's Honey and Tar fails to cure your cough or cold. It stops the cough, heals the lungs and prevents pneumonia and consumption. Contains no opiates. The genuine is in a yellow package. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Without a Single Leaf

A curious tree grows in one of the numerous islands which are studded about the Pacific Ocean. It grows at its full height, to nearly thirty feet, with branches spreading like a huge umbrella, yet it is completely leafless, the species having never been known to show signs of a single bud. Its sap is useful as a medicine, but as fuel the wood is worse than useless, being as hard as iron and quite as difficult to burn.—Home Notes.

Household Notes

Dried lemon peel sprinkled over coals will destroy any disagreeable odor about the house.

Put a few drops of oil of lavender in bookcases to prevent mildew on the books.

Take tepid water and castile soap, wash furniture and rinse well; then take a piece of old silk and rub until it shines. You can make it look like new.

To candy lemon peel boil it in sugar and then expose to the air until the sugar crystallizes.

To make a cake flavored with coffee use strong coffee in place of milk in mixing the batter.

By soaking beans, peas, and other dried vegetables thoroughly much fuel will be saved in the cooking.

Warm water should be used with yeast, while with cream of tartar and soda only cold water should be used.

Bacon fat may be saved and used to fry fish in. It gives the fish a good flavor and keeps it from falling apart.

Wet shoes should be stuffed with paper before putting away. The paper will absorb the moisture and keep the shoes from becoming hard.

When paint sticks to glass it can be removed with hot vinegar.

A porcelain tub or sink may be thoroughly cleansed with a flannel dipped in spirits of turpentine.

To destroy ants in a house, dip an old sponge into sweetened water and lay it where they can get at it. They will all swarm around it, when it may be taken up and thrown into boiling water.

To polish zinc, rub briskly with a cloth dipped in kerosene, and rinse off with boiling water.

When soaking mackerel or other salt fish, see that the skin side is placed uppermost.

It is said that good black ink mixed with the white of an egg is excellent to restore the color to black kid, shoes and gloves both.

When beating eggs observe that there is no grease on the whisk, as it will prevent the eggs from frothing.

Try a little lemon and salt mixed the next time a price mark sticks to the bottom of china dishes or bric-a-brac.

Everybody is likely to have kidney and bladder trouble. In fact nearly everybody has some trouble of this kind. That is the reason why you so often have pains in the back and groin, scalding sensation, urinary disorders, etc.—that's your kidneys. The best thing to do is to get some of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills right away. Take them for a few days or a week or so and you will feel all right. In this way, too, you will ward off dangerous and possibly serious ailments. They are perfectly harmless, and are not only antiseptic, but allay pain quickly by their healing properties. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

Fertilizing the Orchard

Apples, like any other crop, exhaust the soil, and unless the fertility is replaced exhaustion will surely follow. It has been proven that fruit from a well-fertilized orchard is less liable to attacks from insect pests, is more highly colored, has less cull fruit and sells for more in any fruit market.

Experiments have also demonstrated the fact that potash and phosphoric acid are the two elements most needed by orchard soils and that it is best to avoid nitrogenous manures which stimulate the late growth of wood, which, especially in short seasons, will not mature and which will be more or less winter killed.

It has also been proven by experiments that mineral fertilizers are best adapted to the needs of the trees, and that their application will pay large returns.

HIGH-O-ME

That's the Way to Pronounce Hyomei, the Money-Back Catarrh Cure.

As doubt exists in the minds of many readers of The Gazette let us say that the above is the proper pronunciation of America's most wonderful catarrh cure.

F. W. Jordan is the agent for Hyomei in Bedford and he will sell you an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and full instructions for use, for only $1. And if it fails to cure acute or chronic catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, croup, hay fever or coughs and colds, he will give you your money back. The person who suffers from catarrh after such an offer as that, must like to snuffle, spit and wheeze, and be generally disgusting.

Read what Mr. G. F. Lowe says: "I have used Hyomei for a case of nasal catarrh which had bothered me for a long time. I can say that Hyomei killed the germs of the disease and gave me the much sought and needed relief. From this experience I know Hyomei to be a reliable remedy, and I give it the praise and recommendation that it deserves."—G. F. Lowe, R. F. D. No. 7, Allegan, Mich., September 19, 1908.

M-I-O-N-A
Cures Indigestion

It relieves stomach misery, sour stomach, belching, and cures all stomach diseases or money back. Large box of tablets 50 cents. Druggists in all towns.

FARM NOTES

Get posted on silos and making silage; and if enough cows are kept to justify it, by all means plant a silage crop and have a silo ready to receive it.

A bad smelling dairy barn shows that something is wrong. There will be plenty, though, who will laugh at the idea of a dairy barn not smelling to high heaven.

Begin to cut down a cow's rations when it is desired that she go dry; and feed her so that it can be said she is well fed without being fattened while she is dry.

To develop a dairy heifer into something really good, do not hesitate to feed it well the first two years. It will be a better feeder thereafter if fed well when young.

Care must always be taken in feeding new oats after old dry oats. The change should be gradual.

Keep the musty hay out of the dairy barn both as feed and as bedding, as the mustiness represents the existence of millions of minute spores of fungous growths. The spores get in the milk by way of the air and often cause bitter and other flavors. Sometimes also they produce growths in the milk that cause stringiness or thickening of the milk.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the favorite little liver pill, gentle and sure. Sold by all druggists.

A Guaranteed Cough remedy is Bees Laxative Cough Syrup. For coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough, hoarseness and all bronchial affections. Best for children because it is quick to relieve and tastes good. Gently laxative. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Rhyme of the English Kings

First William, the Norman,
Then William, his son;
Henry, Stephen and Henry,
Then Richard and John.
Next, Henry the third,
Edwards one, two and three,
And again, after Richard,
Three Henrys we see.
Two Edwards, third Richard,
If rightly I guess,
Two Henrys, sixth Edward,
Queen Mary and Bess.
Then Jamie, the Scotchman,
And Charles, whom they slew,
Yet received Cromwell,
Another Charles, too.
Next James the second
Ascended the throne,
Then Good William and Mary
Together came on.
And Georges four,
Fourth William, all past,
Then came Queen Victoria,
And Edward VII, the last.

Baseball News

Baseball is the greatest of all American games and wherever you go the national game is played. It is now the most interesting of all sports in the Sporting World. Baseball means pleasure, recreation and health.

In The Philadelphia Press you will find the baseball news covered very thoroughly, completely and accurately by experts and the funny side depicted by Hugh Doyle, the famous cartoonist.

The scores of the American and National Leagues and other important teams are printed in full.

The Philadelphia Press is the known authority of the entire Sporting World for its completeness, accuracy and reliability. Give it the reading test.

If you want to feel well, look well and be well, take Foley's Kidney Remedy. It tones up the kidneys and bladder, purifies the blood and restores health and strength. Pleasant to take and contains no harmful drugs. Why not commence today? Ed. D. Heckerman.

Evening

From upland shores I see the cows file by,
Lowing, great-chested, down the homeward trail,
By dusking fields and meadow shining
pale
With moon-tipped dandelions. Flickering high,
A peevish nighthawk in the western sky
Beats up into the lucent solitudes
Or drops with guiding wing. The stilly woods
Grow dark and deep and gloom, mys-
teriously,
Cool night and winds creep, and whisper in mine ear.
The homely cricket gossips at my feet,
From far-off pools and wastes of reeds I hear,
Clear and soft-piped, the chanting frogs break sweet
In full Pandean chorus. One by one Shine out the stars, and the great night comes on.

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS

By the Way He Does It He Gives an Index to His Character.

THE POTENCY OF LAUGHTER.

Shown by the Effective Way in Which Cervantes Smiled Spain's Vain and Foolish Chivalry Away—Men Who Never Laughed and Rarely Smiled.

What an index to character is man's laugh! What surer clew can we have to both his intellect and his temper unless it be that he seldom or never laughs? "Nothing," says Goethe, "is more significant of men's character than what they find laughable." "You know no man," says Tieck, "till you have heard him laugh—till you know when and how he will laugh." "The perception of the ludicrous," says Emerson, "is a pledge of sanity. A rogue alive to the ludicrous is still convertible. If that sense is lost his fellow men can do little for him."

Lavater, the great physiognomist, lays his great stress on the very unequivocal and derisive nature of a laugh as an index of character. If it be free and hearty and occasion a general and light movement in all the features and dimple the cheek and chin, it is an almost infallible evidence of the absence of any great material wickedness of disposition. Caesar mistrusted Cassius because that lean and hungry conspirator rarely, if ever, indulged in laughter. When Horace Walpole was in Paris in 1765 he found that laughing was out of fashion in that gay capital. "Good folks," he writes, "they have no time to laugh. There are God and the king to be pulled down first, and men and women, one and all, are devoutly employed in the demolition."

How often a man fails to betray the tiger that lurks within him until he laughs! Is there nothing significant in the fact recorded by Plutarch of Cato the younger that nothing could make him laugh, that his countenance was scarcely softened even by a smile? Is it not a characteristic trait of the gloomy tyrant, Philip II. of Spain, that he rarely smiled and that he laughed but once in his entire life, and that when he heard of the massacre on St. Bartholomew's day? Is it not a suggestive fact regarding the gloomy, taciturn Wallenstein, the terror of the people, at the sight of whom as he paced through his camp with his lofty figure enveloped in a scarlet mantle and with a red feather in his cap a strange horror took possession of the soldiers, that he was never seen to smile? Can we wonder that the poor little dwarf, Alexander Pope, the cynical satirist, afflicted with asthma and dropsy, tortured with rheumatism, racked with headaches and threatened with cataract, should never have laughed, but only smiled?

It has been said of the greatest of English dramatists, who united with his intense humor an equally intense, piercing insight into the darkest and most fearful depths of human nature, that no heart would have been strong enough to hold the woe of Lear and Othello except that which had the unquenchable elasticity of Falstaff and the "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Might not a similar remark be made of that "pendulum betwixt a smile and a fear," Abraham Lincoln, in whom sadness and a keen sense of the comic were so strikingly combined? How exuberant was his mirth, sparkling in jest, comic story and anecdote, and yet how often the very next moment those sad, pathetic, melancholy eyes showed a man familiar with "sorrows and acquainted with grief!"

Who can doubt that but for the merriment in which he indulged—the contagious laughter which welled up from his soul as naturally as do bubbles in the springs of Saratoga—he would have sunk under his weary weight of care long before he fell by the pistol of Booth?

It is indeed statesmen, students and thinkers generally who most need the relaxation afforded by occasional merriment. Some centuries ago it was the fashion in Europe for men of rank to keep a buffoon, and a banquet was considered incomplete where a privileged jester was not an attendant. This was perhaps for those days a wise custom. It is surprising how much a few minutes' sleep will refresh the body and a few minutes' laughter the mind, and many a useful life might be prolonged by the substitution of these remedies for "carking care" and weariness in place of the usual treacherous tonics and stimulants.

What a dismal deduction would be made from the happiness of our homes if they were robbed of their merriment! What pictures of innocent mirth has Goldsmith given in the "Vicar of Wakefield," and how artless the remark of the good Dr. Primrose, "He had little wit we had plenty of laughter!"

What a power for good and evil is the world's "dread laugh, which scarce the firm philosopher can scorn!" How many men have been cowed by it who could have faced without flinching a battery's deadly fire! How many bad customs and wicked practices, how many quixotic schemes of philanthropy or reform, how many absurd doctrines in politics, theology and sociology, which have defied the artillery of argument have been "laughed off the public stage," never to return! Did not Cervantes "smile Spain's vain and foolish chivalry away?"—William Makepeace Thackeray.

The Badge of Honesty

Is an every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherry bark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all wasting diseases where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist doesn't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Stephen A. Douglas.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

He was a giant in intellect.

VERY early in his career Stephen A. Douglas became known throughout the country as "the Little Giant." The sobriquet was a fit one. Physically he was short and slight—a little man. Mentally he was big from his boyhood. His head was large and correspondingly brainy. He was a giant in intellect.

Douglas was daringly ambitious. His goal was the presidency of the United States. As a schoolboy in Vermont and western New York the familiar paradoxical fact that "any American boy can become president" seems to have taken possession of him. He settled in a new state, Illinois, to grow up with the country and work himself into leadership. Though he failed of the presidency, he was in the whitest heat of the presidential limelight for years.

Perhaps no man in American history rose to national eminence so rapidly as did Douglas. He almost won a nomination for congress at the age of twenty-five. Only three years later he was a member of the supreme court of Illinois, resigning this office at the age of thirty to enter congress. In the lower house Douglas became at once a national figure. Entering the senate a few years later, his fame widened and deepened with each succeeding year. Douglas was a far more prominent man in 1852 than was Franklin Pierce, who defeated him for the Democratic nomination for president and was elected. Douglas was still under forty. Four years later the engrossing slavery problem had so divided his party that again he failed to win the nomination. In 1860 he was nominated by the northern section of the Democracy.

It was his espousal of the doctrine of "squatter sovereignty," which contended that every territory should be permitted to vote for itself on the question of slavery, that cost Douglas the presidency.

Douglas died at the early age of forty-eight, a few months after the inauguration of his greatest opponent, Abraham Lincoln. It is to his everlasting credit that he upheld Lincoln in the effort to preserve the republic. This fact may be taken as the moral measure of the man. His last words to his political adherents were:

"There can be no neutrals in this war."

THE RIVALS.

How Their Rivalry Ended In an Interrupted Fight.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

The coach swung down an incline, the brake scraping noisily. As we reached the hollow one of the passengers, a boy of sixteen, put down a window, letting in a lot of foggy night air. There were coughings and mutterings, and a man endeavored to raise the window, but the boy hung on. Then the coach stopped suddenly, the door was thrown open and a voice said:

"Hey, doctor!"

A man of professional appearance started and looked uneasy.

"You a doctor?" asked the man at the door.

"I am a surgeon."

"All the better. You're wanted. Git out."

It was not yet clear but that the coach had been stopped by road agents, and the surgeon quickly alighted.

"All right. Drive on. Doctor, you git on to that critter and come along."

The doctor made a feeble protest, which was not listened to, mounted the horse referred to and, with a man riding on either side, one of whom carried the doctor's bag, proceeded by a crossroad.

"W-w-hat are you going to do with me?" asked the medical man.

"Oh, don't be skeered. You're not goin' to be hurt. Are your tools in the bag?"

"I have some instruments there."

"Well, you're to be ready at a light to patch up one or both of two men—that is, if they're not killed before the fracas is ended. Y' see, Tom Biglow and Abe Huchins, they got stuck on the same gal, and there don't appear no way to settle the matter except for one of 'em to kill the other. They bein' good friends and neither wantin' an advantage, they want to hev the fight conducted with all the flourishes of an old fashioned duel. South Carolina Jim, he arranged it all for 'em and says they must hev a surgeon."

"But hasn't the girl got anything to say about it?"

"The gal! Oh, she don't know that either of 'em want her. They tumbled to her only last week. Y' see, out yere in Arizona there ain't many women, and this one she come out with her folks only a week ago lookin' as purty as a leetle red wagon. Tom and Abe both seen her to once, and both said they was goin' for her. But it wouldn't be fair for either of 'em to go in ahead of the other, so they made it up to fight for her. Tomorrow mornin' they're to walk, one up and 't'other down the road, and when they get within shootin' distance they're to begin firin'. South Carolina Jim wanted 'em to stand still and fire when he dropped his hat, but they said there might be a chance of one on 'em bein' charged with shootin' before the signal, and they preferred to do the job without any such tomfool restrictions. But they let Jim hev his way about the surgeon. We kep' Johnny Croker on the stage every day for a week to find out if there was a doctor aboard, and if there was Johnny was to let down the window when he come to the holder."

"And how far," asked the doctor, "are you going to take me out of my way on this stupid business?"

"Yere we are," was the reply, and they pulled up at a cabin beside the road. A man appeared at the door, lighted only by a candle within.

"We ketchin' him," said one of the men on horseback. Then to his fellow horseman he said: "You ride over and tell Abe. There's the dawn comin' now. Tell him soon's he sees the first speck of the sun to start. Tom 'll start from yere at the same time."

The messenger went on, and the others entered the hut. The owner drew a quart bottle from beneath his coat and passed it to the doctor, but the doctor declined.

"Not drink this chilly mornin'!" exclaimed his entertainer. "Why, what's goin' to stiddy your hand when you're cuttin' in a bullet or tryin' to stop a flow of blood?"

"That's just what would unsteady me," replied the doctor.

This statement was received with a stare of wonder, and the conversation turned upon other topics. Tom Biglow spoke of his future with as much confidence as if he were not going within an hour to be one of two targets for a dead shot. When that hour had passed and the dawn had developed into broad daylight, leaving Biglow, the two others mounted and entered down the road for a mile, when the doctor's pilot stopped.

"They're to begin firin' when they're on that and that crest," pointing in opposite directions. "You're to stay yere, where y'll be about even between 'em both."

After awhile they saw first one figure standing on a crest and soon after another on the opposite crest. Both advanced and when they thought they were within range fired a couple of shots each, but they were too far apart for execution. At that moment a man and a woman came riding furiously across the plain.

"Stop this!" shouted the man.

A signal was made to the combatants, who ceased firing and came slowly up to see what was the matter.

"What d'you fellows mean by interruptin' a couple on the bridal night? I married the gal you two are fightin' about yisterday. 'Bout dawn her dad came and told us y' was goin' to fight for her. She was bound to git up and stop y'. I'd like to shoot y' both."

The rivals looked at each other sheepishly, then advanced and shook hands.

Women in Postoffices

According to a report made by the United States Postoffice Department Uncle Sam has 188 women assistant postmasters and 2,100 women employed as stamp, delivery window or money order clerks. The women clerks receive on an average $1,130 a year, or about $70 less than the men clerks. Two women employed in the Postoffice Department proper at Washington earn $1,800, 16 receive $1,600, 40 $1,400, 71 $1,200 and 74 $1,000 per annum. A majority of these women are wives or widows. The testimony of the postoffice authorities is that women make highly efficient public servants and that they are equal in honesty to men, if not superior to them.

Hendrick Hudson.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

Set adrift in Hudson bay by mutineers, his fate is still a mystery of the frozen north.

WHEN a year or so ago a steamboat for traffic on the Hudson river was launched with the name Hendrick Hudson, somebody remonstrated, holding that the name of the vessel should be Henry Hudson, because that was Hudson's real name. Nevertheless it seems fitting that the boat be named Hendrick instead of Henry, for it was while in the service of the Dutch East India company that the English navigator discovered the great river which bears his name. Moreover, his own country was so jealous of his prowess as a discoverer for another nation that on his return to the old world Hudson was practically imprisoned into the British service and was not permitted to enjoy his full reward for the successes achieved by him when he voyaged under the Dutch name of Hendrick.

Hudson perished miserably in the service of British interests. This was when he made his disastrous voyage in search of that long hidden northwest passage which lured so many mariners to defeat or doom and which was finally discovered by Captain Roald Amundsen nearly three centuries after Hudson's death. Hudson sailed into the vast northern bay which, along with the gloriously picturesque river, keeps his name on the map of the world. There was mutiny aboard, and the mariners set the great navigator adrift in a small boat in the icy waters with his son and a few other adherents. The fate of Hudson and his party is still a mystery of the frozen north.

For the people of the United States Hudson's chief achievement was the discovery of the wonderful river at the mouth of which has grown up the second city of the world in population and the first in commercial importance.

Hendrick Hudson sailed northward around Sandy Hook and entered the river in September, 1609, in the Dutch ship Half Moon. The explorer spent a month studying the stream, going up as far as the site of the city of Albany.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours:

a brick dust sediment, or setting, or milky appearance indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

RECIPES

Allegheny Tea Cake

One pound of butter, one pound of sugar, eight eggs and one and one-quarter pounds of flour. Rub butter and sugar together and add by degrees the well-beaten eggs and the flour. Flavor to taste. Drop with a spoon on well-greased tins and bake.

Egyptian Tomatoes

Peel and scoop out the centers of five or six solid tomatoes, and put them on ice until they are chilled. When ready to serve arrange the tomatoes on lettuce leaves and fill the centers with finely chopped water cress that has been seasoned with grated onion, half a teaspoonful of celery seed, a dash of salt and pepper. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

A Mayonnaise Hint

To insure the mayonnaise from separation in the discouraging way which it sometimes has, use a little of the white of one egg with the yolk with which the oil is mixed. A girl who never has a failure does this, using cold utensils and receptacles for the work. She turns in half a tablespoonful of oil at a time and for her family of four or five it takes just seven minutes by the clock for the work.

Brown Sugar Cookies

One cup brown sugar, one cup butter (or part beef drippings), creamed together, one egg, one tablespoon milk, two cups pastry flour, one scant teaspoon baking powder. Keep on ice over night and in the morning they can be rolled as thin as a wafer. Cut with a doughnut or cookie cutter and watch carefully while baking, as they scorch easily.

THE SECRET OUT

"What made my lovely complexion? I do not like to tell, for it was medicine, but the nicest a woman ever took. It was Lane's Family Medicine that did it." This is a pleasant herb tea which acts favorably on the stomach and bowels, purifying the blood and cleansing the skin like magic. It cures headache and backache. Druggists and dealers sell it, 25c.

Umbrellas Last Longer if Oiled

To prolong the life of your umbrella open it and place a drop of oil in each joint; now open and close the umbrella several times to insure the oil penetrating to where it is most needed. Wipe off any superfluous oil and in case some gets on the cover remove with gasoline. Repeat this process in the course of a few weeks and note how much less you spend for umbrellas. In the matter of the children's umbrellas, one lasts as long as three when treated in this way.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment, 50 cents at any drug store.

Must Fulfill One's Mission

Do not call for death because it is hard for you to live. The entire burden of the world on the shoulders of every mortal being compels him to fulfill his mission. The only means of freeing one's self from this burden is in the fulfillment of one's mission. You will be relieved only after you have done the work assigned to you.—Emerson.

Cost of Wars

Italian war, $300,000,000 and 45,000 lives.

Prussia and Austrian war, $333,000,000 and 45,000 lives.

Russia and Turkish war, $135,000,000 and 250,000 lives.

France and Prussia war, $4,000,000,000 and 196,000 lives.

Russia and England war, $2,000,000,000 and 750,000 lives.

United States war of the rebellion, 1861-5, $7,400,000,000 and 820,000 lives.

History says "the loss of the war of 1812 was one in eighty-five, Mexican war one in twenty, war of the rebellion was one in seven."

What Is Success?

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved, who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task, who has left the world better than he has found it; whether by an improved seed, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration, whose memory a benediction.

Where is Your Hair?

In your comb? Why so? Is not the head a much better place for it? Better keep what is left where it belongs! Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, quickly stops falling hair. There is not a particle of doubt about it. We speak very positively about this, for we know.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Ayer's

Indeed, the one great leading feature of our new Hair Vigor may well be said to be this—it stops falling hair. Then it goes one step further—it aids nature in restoring the hair and scalp to a healthy condition. Ask for "the new kind."

BIG CIRCUS AT ALTOONA

Barnum and Bailey to Exhibit There on May 29.

The Barnum and Bailey greatest show on earth is to visit Altoona on Saturday, May 29. Never since the beginning of time has an amusement enterprise so tremendous in size been organized as this one. Its magnitude is almost beyond belief. All America, together with every foreign country, has been scoured from end to end by agents of this big show in search of novelties and the result is a performance brim full of sensational acts new to the circus world. In the big Barnum and Bailey show are nearly 400 arenic stars, most of whom are seen now for the first time. A new sensation will be seen at every performance in "JUPITER, the balloon horse." This remarkable animal with its fearless rider ascends to the dome of the circus tent in a balloon and descends to the ground in a shower of fireworks. Nearly 1,000 animal wonders are to be found in the big 108 cage menagerie. Eight herds of elephants, including one herd that actually plays upon musical instruments in time and tune. A group of giant giraffes, monster trained hippopotamus, only living bi-horned rhinoceros and hundreds of other strange beasts. Barnum and Bailey's big, new, free street parade is the most gorgeous processional display ever attempted in the history of circus business. Its tremendous size and wonderful length can only be believed in the actual seeing. It is natural to expect this big circus to lead all others in quality and quantity of its street spectacle as well as in other departments of the big show, yet never in its splendid history of nearly half a century has it displayed such extravagance as is shown this year.

Pineules are for Backache, and bring quick relief to lumbago, rheumatism, fatigue and all other symptoms of Kidney diseases. They are a tonic to the entire system and build up strength and health. Price 50c and $1. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

What Next? Recently notice was made in these columns that The Pittsburg Dispatch had added a fine Literary Magazine to its Sunday edition, and that the price would not be increased, but would remain at five cents.

Now The Dispatch announces the publication of Roy Norton's latest novel, "The Nation's Pawn," and that the first instalment will be published in the Literary Magazine section May 16. Those who read "The Vanishing Fleets" by the same author are sure to read Mr. Norton's new novel, which is considered better. The story is clean, wholesome and fit for every member of the family to read. It is certain to create a sensation.

After all the good things The Dispatch has been adding lately is it any wonder people say, "What Next?"

Hoarseness, bronchitis and other throat troubles are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar as it soothes and heals the inflamed throat and bronchial tubes and the most obstinate cough disappears. Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Notes on Bee Keeping

Persons of irregular habits, afraid of too much work, careless, or unkind, would better not take up the bee business, or handling live things of any kind.

Let no man undertake bee keeping thinking that it is an easy task. Bee keeping is like growing a crop. It takes care and labor to make it succeed.

There are still some who argue that the most money for them is in old ideas, old methods, and common bees. They regard the new as too expensive. The best bee keepers, and those who make the most money use up-to-date methods.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

CLEAN UP!

There has been ample time to clean up the lawns and gardens of the town. There is no longer any excuse for piles of rubbish and decaying vegetable matter in gardens, lots, or in cellars.

The removal of many front fences has added materially to the appearance of the town, but some lawns and gardens do not yet present the appearance that lends to making our town a "Bedford Beautiful."

A number of the streets have been scraped and cleaned and present a commendable appearance. The borough is doing its duty; let not private plots detract from the beauty of the town nor contribute conditions not conducive to the health of the community.

THE POWER OF WEALTH

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey
Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

The action of the United States Senate in dealing with tariff schedules brings to mind with force the words of the Irish author of the Deserted Village. It is a fact well known that trust magnates in the past, or their representatives, have prepared the schedules in tariff bills on articles in which they were particularly interested, and unless all signs fail the same has been done in the measure now before the national congress, as was brought out when the schedule affecting the lead trust was raised.

The action of the Executive in allowing a great corporation to take over the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company "to avert a panic has simply had the effect of giving more power to that already gigantic concern. Well may the common people repeat the words of the Revolutionary patriot—"But when shall we be stronger? Shall we gather strength by irresolution and inaction?"

It is high time for the American people to wake up and select, in both state and nation, representatives who shall serve the people and not the iron interests, nor a particular newspaper, nor the liquor league, nor any one man nor group of men, but the whole people; men whose honor and integrity are above reproach; men who cannot be tempted by private interest or corporate influence to betray their constituents.

If the national Republican platform did contain equivocal statements on the tariff it was interpreted on the stump by President Taft and the host of campaign orators who plead with the people of the nation to allow the tariff to be revised by its friends. The voters accepted the interpretation for a downward revision and are now waking from the delusion to find that the platform pledges are being broken by the bosses in charge of the tariff bill.

The American combinations of capital can now bring on a panic at will. They have been bolstered by the tariff, and have gained strength unprecedented in the history of the world. Shall they be allowed to go on in the amassing of abnormal fortunes at the expense of consumers? Will the great mass of the American people ever again come into possession of their constitutional rights, or shall tariff schedules still be made to fill the coffers of the trusts?

LETTER TO LEVI SMITH

Bedford, Pa.

Dear Sir: The hardest climate for paint is Florida; and Devoe is the longest wearing paint in that state.

D G Smith, of Madison, Fla, says: "I painted my mother's house Devoe 11 years ago, and today it looks better than other houses in town that were painted with other paint 3 or 4 years ago." Three or four and eleven.

This shows two things: (1) the low standard of paint in that part of the country; and (2) that Devoe is the paint that wears.

It doesn't show the whole fact; which is: Devoe is the paint that takes least gallons to do the job, makes first cost by a ratio of 2 to 3, 2 to 4, 2 to 5, 2 to 6, for the job.

Smith wasn't thinking about the cost of the job; it was done a long time ago. He was thinking how well the house looks after 11 years wear in that hot climate, and how long it will be before painting again.

Yours truly

Mrs. Elizabeth Oldham

Elizabeth Rebecca Oldham, widow of Jehu Oldham, died at the home of her son Emanuel near Hellville, on May 5, 1909, aged 80 years, 11 months and 14 days. She was the mother of eight sons and four daughters. The following survive: William F. of near New Paris, Shannon O. of Davis, W. Va., Emanuel S. of near Hellville, Daniel of Loraine, O., Edmund, and Mrs. Isaac Gordon, of Windber. This aged and respected mother was a member of the Evangelical Church for 44 years. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. F. Conley, assisted by Rev. L. B. Rittenhouse. Her remains were laid to rest in the Baptist Cemetery near New Paris, by the following gentlemen: E. S. Manges, Randall McCreary, Henry Miller, Noah Thomas, A. J. Gordon and A. B. Manges. Caj.

Mrs. Margaret Jay

Mrs. Margaret Jay died at the home of her son Barton in Mann Township on Friday, May 7, at the age of 70 years, one month and five days. Her husband, Samuel Jay, died about 25 years ago.

Deceased was the mother of nine children, seven of whom survive: Mrs. Barney Diehl of Chaneyville, Mrs. James Dicken of Pine Ridge, Mrs. Jacob Kneel of Centreville, Barton Jay and Mrs. Joseph Howsare, of Mann Township; Mrs. Clarence Dicken of Clearville, and Mrs. Hast of Cumberland.

The funeral was held in the Mt. Zion Christian Church last Sunday, Rev. John H. Barney conducting the services. Interment in the cemetery nearby.

Norman Fisher

Norman, son of George and Maggie Fisher, died at the home of his parents a short distance south of Bedford, on Saturday, May 8, aged two years and seven months. Death resulted from measles and pneumonia. Three other children are ill. Interment was made in the Catholic Cemetery on Sunday.

Good Points of Jackson Car

In a comparative discussion of 1909 model autos, a specialist in a recent metropolitan journal said of the Jackson, which is handled here by Ed. Dill:

"Two factors are largely responsible for popularity of Jackson cars—first, the material and workmanship; second, the style and power. The new Model H 1,600 car is winning great success. This car is fitted with a four-cylinder vertical motor, cast in pairs, with water jackets integral, both valves being on the same side and operated by a single cam shaft. All parts such as gears, crank and cam shafts, magneto driving pinions and distributors are completely inclosed, giving a very steady and quiet motor."

Scale on Hedge Fences

Osage orange hedges in some sections of the state have become so infested with San Jose scale, according to information received by the Division of Economic Zoology of the State Department of Agriculture, that they are proving a serious menace to the fruit trees of the respective localities in which the insect has thus appeared. These hedge fences seem to be regular breeding or lurking places of the scale, especially when the hedges are given but little attention in the way of pruning.

To hold the scale in control on such fences, it would be well to prune the hedges back or cut them low, and spray them thoroughly with boiled lime-sulphur wash. This can be done at almost any time for this kind of hedge.

When an osage orange fence is allowed to grow tall and rank it becomes one of the worst of nuisances. The danger lies in the likelihood of the scale spreading to adjacent fruit trees. There is little possibility of it attacking trees of the forest. Fortunately, most of the trees of our forests are practically exempt from inroads of the San Jose Scale.

John Gephart, Sr.

On the morning of May 4, John Gephart, Sr., an aged and highly-respected citizen, died at his home west of New Paris, where he has resided for forty-six years, at the age of 82 years, 11 months and 24 days. The deceased was born in Germany May 10, 1826, and came to America with his parents in a sailboat in the year 1834, requiring about three months to cross the Atlantic. On December 27, 1849, he married Miss Elizabeth Dobson who still survives. They reared a family of three sons and four daughters—George W. and Mrs. J. B. Stultz, of near New Paris; Mrs. George Berkebile of Johnstown, Mrs. C. C. Cuppett of Washington, D. C., Ambrose of Canton, O., Amanda, deceased, who married Richard Carson, and Emanuel. Frederick Gephart of Loysburg and Daniel Gephart of Altoona are brothers of the deceased.

He was converted at the age of 16 and united with the Evangelical Church of which he was an active member all those years, "even unto death."

In the death of Mr. Gephart the community has lost an obliging neighbor and an upright citizen, the church a liberal contributor and a spiritual advisor, the home a kind husband, and an exemplary father. He was never known to be under the influence of intoxicants and was an advocate of temperance, voting the Prohibition ticket for a number of years. His last act was that of placing his signature on a petition asking the present Legislature to grant us the privilege to vote on Local Option.

The funeral, which occurred on the morning of the sixth, was largely attended and was conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. F. Conley, assisted by his former pastor, Rev. L. B. Rittenhouse. Interment was made in the Evangelical Cemetery at New Paris. The pall bearers of this Christian gentleman were six of his neighbors, John Kerr, J. W. Lint, David Custer, R. E. Dull, C. M. Davis and J. A. McCreary. Caj.

W. M. Keyser

William Marcy Keyser died in Pittsburg of pneumonia on Monday, May 10, at the age of 55 years and 21 days. He was born at New Buena Vista, this county, on April 19, 1854, and had resided in Pittsburg for a number of years.

The body was taken to the home of his brother, Silas W. Keyser, at Schellsburg on Wednesday, where funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Rev. H. W. Bender of the Lutheran Church officiated, assisted by Rev. M. G. Clayton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Interment in the Schellsburg Cemetery.

Deceased leaves the following brother and sisters: Silas W. Keyser of Schellsburg, Mrs. Margaret Beegle of Pittsburg, Mrs. Elmira Barnhart of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Kate Conrad of Johnstown, and Mrs. Susan Boor of Cumberland Valley. All were present at the funeral except Mrs. Barnhart. Mr. Keyser was a brother of the late Mrs. John A. Cessna and Mrs. S. C. Ritchey, of this place.

B. F. Morehead.

Benjamin Franklin Morehead, after a month's illness from a complication of diseases, died on Thursday, May 6, at his home near King in Kimmell Township, aged 53 years, six months and 22 days.

Deceased was born near Imler and was a son of Matthew Morehead. In 1886 he married Ellen Stinemar who, with three children, survives: Effie, Bruce and Virgie, all at home. He was a good husband, a kind and obliging neighbor, and an upright Christian man.

He was a consistent member of the Reformed Church at Imler for many years, at which place he was buried on Sunday. The large number of people in attendance showed the high esteem in which he was held. Rev. J. W. Zehring, his pastor, officiated.

Charles Bernard Yont

Charles Bernard, oldest son of Charles and Margaret (Leo) Yont, died at the Grand Central Hotel, this place, Sunday night, May 9, after an illness of but three days from measles and spinal meningitis, aged two years and three months.

The little fellow was bright and interesting and was a general favorite. An incident connected with the sad death of little Bernard is the birth of a third son to Mr. and Mrs. Yont Monday night.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning, Rev. Father Downes conducting the services. Interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

Edward D. Bain

Edward Dill, only son of John M. and Sarah (Dill) Bain, died at the home of his parents in Huntingdon of pneumonia on Saturday, May 8, at the age of two years and seven months.

He was born in Bedford and, besides his parents, leaves four small sisters: Elizabeth, Rebecca, Helen and Emily. The body was brought to Bedford Tuesday morning for interment.

Things to Forget

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd,
A leader of men, marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud
Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet, and guarded, and kept from the day
In the dark, and whose showing, whose sudden display
Would cause grief and sorrow and lifelong dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy
That will wipe out a smile, or the least way annoy
A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

Marjorie's Inspiration.

By J. W. EVANS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Marjorie was little more than fifteen. She called it a little less than sixteen, and, in keeping with that declaration, she surreptitiously lengthened her skirts so gradually that her unsuspecting mother never noticed it.

Also she read "His Heart's Queen" with the same circumspect privacy and tortured her tip tilted nose with strenuous massage till she found that her ardor to make it classic merely made it red. In a word, Marjorie was growing up.

Her present grievance as she looked from her window with a face as dismal as the sky was that her sister Rachel was to leave in a few hours to attend a house party in Philadelphia from which she, forsooth, was excluded by reason of her tender years. And that horrid Tom Norris, who had laughed when she said she was near sixteen, was to go with Rachel.

Well, the papers predicted rain, and she hoped it would just pour. It was at that point that her thoughts took a turn by undoubted inspiration, and she suddenly darted downstairs with an expression from which the wrath had partially cleared. She'd show them!

A few hours later she escorted Rachel unceremoniously to the door. "Goodbye, dear," she said sweetly. "Don't forget your umbrella. It's going to rain. You two look just like a bride and groom." She added maliciously as Norris picked up Rachel's suit case. She was pleased to observe that Rachel flushed with annoyance.

"I sent mine by express," said Tom apologetically.

"Pooh! You did it on purpose."

"Marjorie!" said her sister severely. The only response as they departed was a derisive laugh.

"She's a little imp sometimes," said Rachel, "but she's growing up. I suppose I was just as bad."

When they emerged from the subway at Twenty-third street the rain the interested crowd making way for them right and left, they hurried on, a gleeful procession of prospective fellow passengers trailing along in their rice strewn wake.

"Tom," the girl gasped, "it's perfectly horrid! Oh, oh, if only I hadn't come—if only I had that youngster here!"

Still attended by a grinning throng, Tom purchased the tickets, and they made the boat with half a minute to spare. Partly from the unwonted exertions and partly from her feelings Rachel's face was scarlet, seeing which Tom kept his own carefully impassive.

He remained silent as she talked, begging him half tearfully to brush away the grains from her collar. "Oh, and it's down inside my collar too!" she cried. Then she saw his eye twinkle, and her color flamed up again.

She congealed into frozen silence. "You're just as horrid as Marjorie," she said at last. "You enjoyed her mean joke about the suit case, and you haven't minded this one bit, and I'm not going to Philadelphia at all. I'm going right back on the next boat."

There were angry tears in her eyes as she finished, but they were quickly repressed when she saw the other eyes still turned on them from all quarters with interested amusement.

"That's better," he said dryly as he observed the change in expression. "We don't want to give them the idea that we are making for a divorce court. It's too soon to be conventional. You aren't supposed to weep for at least a month. Now, then," he went on, calmly unheeding the one withering glance she cast at him when she was sure no one would see it, "if you go back the kid will have the joke on you. You can't do a thing to her, and the more angry you are the better she'll be pleased. Furthermore, my dear girl!"—

"I'm not your dear girl," she observed briefly.

"Oh, yes, you are. What I was going to say was that it seems to me you're a little rough on yours truly. I don't especially mind your apparently violent aversion to the idea of being married to me, but I've been intending to tell you for some time that I don't share in it. I think that kid sister of yours is bright enough to be twenty, and I'm going to apologize for my former insult to her age the next time I see her." He waited impressively for his words to sink in. "Now, just reflect," he went on; "the rice throwing and the unpleasant part of getting married is over and done with. Why not finish it up? Let's do it now—and then there will be a bride and groom at the house party."

She looked at him in wonder. "There is nothing the matter with your imagination, Tom," she said, her calmness quite restored by the magnificent coolness of his suggestion.

"Of course there isn't," he smiled. "I'm not proposing it for a joke, dear. I love you. And it's practicable because I know the license clerk in Philadelphia, so that there will be no trouble about that."

She began to shake her head, but he noticed that she did not resent the term he had used. "Let me think," she said at last. "I'll tell you when we get there. But Tom—Tom—it would be a shame."

"Not a bit of it," he said stoutly. "We'll both live to call your sister blessed."

They relapsed into a silence which he was careful to break as seldom as possible till they were nearing Philadelphia.

"Three minutes to the Broad street station," he said gravely as the train pulled in at West Philadelphia. "Just three minutes in which to decide if we are to avoid our well intentioned friends at the station."

She shook her head. "Oh, no—longer than that," she said as she smiled up at him. "It's taken me nearly three hours."

Out in the Rain.

The Indian fairly revels in rain, declares G. W. James in his book, "What the White Race May Learn From the Indian." Indian women no more mind the rain than they do that the sun should shine or the wind blow, and as for any evil effect from the wet there are no signs of it.

In the first place, they have no fear of the rain. It is not constantly instilled into their minds from childhood that they mustn't get wet or they'll take cold. This has something to do with it. In the second place, they move about with natural activity in the rain as at other times. This keeps the blood circulating and prevents any lowering of the temperature of the body.

In the third place, their general outdoor life gives them such a robustness that if there is any tax upon the system it is fully ready to meet it. Everything in nature loves to be out in the rain, and upon human beings its effects are beneficial, provided they value health and vigor more than they mind a little discomfort in the bedraggled state of their clothes.

NORRIS RAISED THE UMBRELLA HURRIEDLY TO PROTECT HER HAT.

was falling in a fine, businesslike drizzle that had evidently come to stay. "Oh, dear, these ostrich plumes!" wailed Rachel. "I didn't think it would come so soon. No; don't put up the umbrella. The car is right here. It won't be worth the trouble, and you have the suit case."

A shadow of a smile flickered across his face, which she noted. "I believe you enjoyed her horrid joke," she scolded, shaking her head at him.

The car made its way west with exasperating delays, and at last, within a block of the ferry house, it came to a stop with a sudden jerk of finality. The conductor told the exasperated passengers that the line was blocked somewhere and that those in a hurry had better walk.

"Let's make the best of it," said Rachel. "And blessing on that child for reminding me to bring my umbrella."

When they stepped from the car platform a moment later Norris raised the umbrella hurriedly to protect her hat. A bewildering instant passed before they fully understood what had happened, but they were terribly aware of the roar of delighted laughter that went up from the damp crowd, which turned amused faces on them as if glad of anything cheery on so gloomy a day.

The ground where they stood had the appearance of a sudden snowfall. Every corner and crevice of their clothing was white with a clinging shower that continued to patter to the ground with every move they made.

The rim of Rachel's "Merry Widow" caught a reserve supply that fell in a continual stream whether she looked up or down. The curved brim of Tom's derby made up in depth for what it lacked in area and contributed its mite to the seemingly endless supply. The crowd was in a second paroxysm of delight before the two victims grasped the dreadful truth that it was rice.

"That awful child!" was all Rachel could gasp in her consternation. Clearly it was a time for action. Tom seized the single suit case, and, with

New Paris

May 12—There was a large frost for the time of year in our vicinity this morning.

Simon R. Blackburn and wife, of Windber, were guests in our town on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. E. V. Wright spent last week among friends at Pittsburg.

Mrs. Harry A. Long of Windber was a visitor among friends in our vicinity last week.

Mr. Sterner, who purchased a lot of timber from James B. Stultz, has moved his family into W. J. Shoenthal's house west of town. He has a large force of hands peeling bark on the above purchase.

Among the improvements of our town is the painting of Dr. H. I. Shoenthal's barn, which adds much to the appearance of his property. We hope the next will be that of our muddy streets and a few pavements.

Alden Black of Brooklyn, C. C. Cuppett and wife, of Washington, D. C., Ambrose Gephart and wife, of Canton, O., Daniel Gephart of Altoona, George Berkebile and wife and W. A. Stultz and wife, of Johnstown; Frederick Gephart, Albert Gephart and William Gephart, of Loysburg, and James Gephart and family, of Cessna, attended the funeral of John Gephart which occurred on May 6.

Cessna

May 12—Cyrus Kauffman and Alex. Imler spent a day at Imler last week.

Frank Mangos of Route No. 1 purchased a fine horse recently.

Misses Clara Reisswick and Grace Wisegarver are attending summer normal at Bedford.

Jerry Schull and son, of Windber, were calling on old friends at this place recently.

D. B. Pensyl sold a very valuable cow on Monday.

Byron Wisegarver is housed up with the measles.

Harman Amick spent a few days last week with his family.

Our enterprising buckster, Bert Hoenstine, is the happiest man in town; a little girl arrived at his place on Tuesday, May 4.

Hopewell

May 12—A. J. Huff of Saxton visited our town yesterday. He is looking up his interests as a candidate for the nomination for Associate Judge.

A committee of coal operators from this region was called to Altoona yesterday to confer with Patrick Gilday, one of the miners' officials. It is hoped they may reach some conclusion and start the mines in this region.

A little son of Benjamin Leonard fell while playing last Sunday and broke his arm. The fracture was reduced by Dr. F. S. Campbell.

One case of scarlet fever is reported in the family of William Kline, a short distance from here in Broad Top Township.

Mrs. Masters of Pittsburg, lecturer and organizer for the W. C. T. U. of Pennsylvania, lectured in the M. E. Church here Monday evening. She gave a very interesting talk on the evils of intemperance and proved by records taken direct from the county officials the enormous loss to Allegheny County financially through the licensed saloon. She organized a branch of the W. C. T. U. in this place.

Owing to lack of work here men are seeking employment among the farmers and some are employed on the state road near New Enterprise.

The H. and B. T. R. R. Co. is grading the new track at the head of Sandy Run to connect with the lumber railroad that is to be built into Fulton County.

Candidates for Associate Judge are being interrogated by the voters as to how they stand on the license question. The time has passed when the voters can be fooled on this question.

Point

May 11—Herbert Yont returned to Philadelphia on Friday, his furlough having ended. He left on the morning train and reported aboard his ship about 6 o'clock p. m.

Joseph Rue lost a valuable cow Monday morning, finding her dead. The cow seemed all right Sunday evening when she came to the barn from the pasture.

Mrs. Sarah A. Feight spent several days as the guest of the family of your scribe last week.

The supervisors have bought a five-ton road roller, which is said to be a great help in making good roads.

David Lutz was around calling on his many friends in Napier and East St. Clair Townships last week.

Rev. J. C. Powell and wife spent last week in this community visiting among his members through the day and attending a protracted meeting he was holding at night. Mr. Powell is well thought of in this community. He is an earnest worker for good on his circuit. He intends to continue the services another week, commencing Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Winegardner attended the funeral of Mrs. Winegardner's sister, Mrs. Jehu Oldham last Friday near Helixville.

Mrs. R. C. Smith spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. Manford Beckley, near Schellsburg last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Weaver, of near Boswell, attended a meeting of the Baptist Church near New Paris and paid Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rue a visit on Sunday.

Riddlesburg

May 12—The boiler makers have completed their work on the hot ovens at the furnace and have returned to Pittsburg. The bricklayers from Lebanon are busy lining the old furnace and getting it in shape for business.

William Reese of Grafton, W. Va., is in town and will serve the Colonial Iron Company in the capacity of stenographer for Mr. Lauder, the general manager.

William Lauder, Jr., and D. A. Aldstadt took a drive over the country on last Sunday just for the pleasure there was in it.

"Uncle" Joe Brumbaugh, who had been having his home with his brother at this place, has returned to his former home at Easton, Md., where he will spend some time visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Masters of Pittsburg, one of the state organizers for the W. C. T. U., was in our village between trains on Tuesday. She was arranging for a temperance meeting here in the near future.

Mrs. Lauder, who was visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Sutton, at Los Angeles, Cal., for about six weeks, will return to Riddlesburg Thursday of this week.

A new boy came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Lundquest Monday morning.

Mrs. P. H. Stuckey is visiting friends at Altoona this week.

Master John Brumbaugh is at Roaring Spring for a few days' visit.

Call and see our samples of stationery, bill heads, shipping tags, labels, calling cards, and anything you may need. We can please you.

Rainsburg

May 12—Paul Cessna and Miss Margaret Lessig are attending normal school at Everett.

Edward Stuckey spent several days this week in Fulton County.

Mrs. A. J. Wolford is quite ill at this time. Bert Miller is somewhat improved. He was very ill during the past week.

George Smith of Salt Lake City, Utah, is the guest of his father, William F. Smith.

Miss Ruth Cessna is in Cumberland on a visit to her sister, Mrs. John Perdew.

Miss Minnie Koontz has as her guest at present Miss Elinor Smith of Bedford.

Miss Clara Oliver is home from Everett, where she spent some time. Frank Naus of Bedford spent today in our town.

A medicine show is being well patronized.

Rainsburg can now boast of two squires as we have had none for over a year. James H. Gump and Philip Morgart have been commissioned.

Dr. Harry C. Lessig is expected home today from Philadelphia, to which place he took his little daughter Thelma last week for medical attention. The doctor's second daughter, Miss Louise, who is taking a course in nursing at the Kensington Woman's Hospital in that city, underwent an operation for appendicitis last Thursday. Word received yesterday stated that she is getting along very well. We trust she will rapidly recover health and strength.

Buffalo Mills

May 12—The Sunday School at the Cove organized recently by electing H. G. Smith Superintendent, Alden Carpenter Assistant, Miss Mazie May Secretary, Albert Clites Treasurer, S. B. Carpenter Librarian, and Miss Bertha May Organizer. The regular hour of meeting is 9:30. Services by Rev. W. C. Garland next Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

The whistle of the merry plow-boy is now heard during the day, and as the shades of evening fall the whip-poor-will takes up the chorus.

"Have you cleaned house yet?" is the salutation of the feminine sex as they meet indoors or out. Why not give "house" a spiritual significance and continue the query?

Miss Mary Smith visited at Mann's Choice on Monday.

Here is a question for ye wise ones, but don't all speak at once: Has the bushel of wheat increased or the dollar decreased in value?

Some repairing, either for comfort or adornment, is being done in our village. Visitors are scarce and everyone seems to be eager to take nature by the forelock and lead it into paths of usefulness, and for that reason my letter for this time is short.

Schellsburg

May 12—Mr. Gindlesperger of Jennerstown, Isaac Blackburn and Harry Burns, of Springhope, spent Sunday at J. C. Williams'.

Mrs. James Crissey of near town had the misfortune to fall and break her arm.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VII.—Second Quarter, For May 16, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xiv, 1-28. Memory Verses 21, 22—Golden Text, Ps. xcvi. 5—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

The record of their visit to the next city, Iconium, is more encouraging, for, while we may always rest quietly in the Lord, whether we see results or not, it cannot but be a great joy to see many receiving Christ. We therefore read with great gratitude that at Iconium, as they spoke in the synagogue of the Jews, a great multitude both of Jews and Greeks believed and that as they abode there a long time speaking boldly in the Lord He greatly honored the word of His grace and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands. Yet here also unbelieving Jews and gentiles stirred up persecution, and, being threatened with assault and stoning, they fled to Lystra, and there they preached the gospel. Everywhere the carnal mind is seen to be enmity against God, and as the gospel is preached some believe and some believe not (xxviii, 24). At Lystra there was a case of healing similar to that of chapter iii. A man who had never walked, being born lame, was made whole, and the heathen priests were about to worship Paul and Barnabas, thinking them to be gods from heaven. The people here were evidently very idolatrous and full of the heathen mythology concerning Jupiter and Mercury and other deities.

With rent garments Paul and Barnabas ran in among them, assuring them that they were only men like themselves and not gods and urged them to turn from these vanities unto the living God, who made all things (verse 15). Yet it was with difficulty that the people were restrained from offering sacrifice to them. Soon the persecutors from Antioch and Iconium arrived, and they seem to have had no difficulty in persuading these fickle people that Paul was worthy of being stoned to death, which they accordingly did and drew him out of the city, supposing him to be as dead as he seemed to be. As the disciples stood roundabout his dead body he rose up and came into the city, for his work in a mortal body was not yet done. Whether these disciples were new converts, a result of the recent preaching, or not, we are not told, but we do know that on Paul's next visit to Lystra there was a disciple named Timothy, who from that time became Paul's most faithful companion and whom he spoke of in his epistles as "my own son in the faith," "my dearly beloved son." It is possible that, having been well instructed by his mother and grandmother, he was led to come out boldly under Paul's preaching or by witnessing Paul's seeming martyrdom. I like to think of Paul's third heaven or paradise experience (II Cor. xii, 1-4) as occurring at the time he was stoned at Lystra. I think it was so and that he understood more fully then what he had heard Stephen say about heaven opened as he was being stoned to death.

It is possible for us all to have such visions of God by faith that we shall not mind very much the persecutions which will be sure to come if we live wholly unto God. The next day after the stoning the faithful two went on their way to Derbe, and we have no record of Paul suffering in his body because of the stoning. The same power that could in a moment dispel fever and leprosy and all manner of disease and give health to a body four days dead could easily prevent Paul from feeling even bruised by his severe treatment. At Derbe they preached the gospel and made many disciples. Perhaps the miracles at Lystra of the healing of the lame man and of Paul's being raised to life gave weight to the testimony, for we know that the raising of Dorcas and of Lazarus led many to believe in Jesus. We might think that Paul, being now so near his home in Tarsus and after all he had passed through, would want to visit home and rest up a bit, but instead of this we see these two retracing their steps through the very cities where they had been so ill treated without fear of enemies or thought of their own comfort, but thinking only of the welfare of their children in the faith.

So with prayer and fasting they ordained elders in every church, strengthened the souls of the disciples, exhorted them to continue in the faith, assuring them that the way to the kingdom was through much tribulation, and thus commended them to the Lord, on whom they had believed. Having again reached Perga, they now preach the word there and are soon back in Antioch, by the grace of God having fulfilled their ministry for the present. It must have been with intense interest that the church at Antioch heard all that God had done with them and through them and had given them grace to endure, and no doubt there was much prayer at Antioch from that time for the believers at all these places. As Paul and Barnabas now abode a long time at Antioch, they would be able to lay these places heavily upon the hearts of the Christians, and that company of believers who have not on their hearts some church or churches in other lands are not as healthy as they might be. The grace of God, the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, His us for the presence of God, but tribulation is necessary to fit us for our place in the kingdom of God as kings and priests.

SNAPSHOTS OF THE MODE.

Yokes That Will Be Seen on the New Frocks.

Puffed out very full at the back is the Paris decree for the hair. The puffing is accomplished by a wire cage worn underneath the hair.

A recent French yoke planned to eliminate the lower collar line was so cut that the collar and yoke were one piece of firm tulle, with little hand tucks let in perpendicularly around the collar and radiating from there down to the yoke, where they gradually sloped out into the plain material.

One of the spring fancies is the all over soutache net for yokes and sleeves, used in the color of the costume preferably, although the white yoke and sleeve are still in good standing.

A pretty and neat kitchen apron that completely covers the dress is offered in the illustration. It has a shaped and fitted yoke, to which is joined a long, full skirt. If preferred the sleeves may be omitted. The large pockets are a useful feature of the model.

A pattern of this apron may be had in four sizes—32 to 44 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number (480), and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail.

HERE AND THERE.

Gray a Popular Shade This Season. Full Skirts Once More.

Among the new spring shades are lichen gray with green in it and wood rose, Niagara, azalea red with yellow and a suggestion of flame. The new colorings are vivid without being at all garish.

Linens are either heavy, almost like Russian crash, or they are very thin and flimsy. Then there is a crash variety that is stunning.

Skirts next summer are to be fuller about the bottom, and there is a prospect that a really bouffant skirt will put in an appearance in August. Even now such models are being worn in Paris.

Foulards are always good style, and a frock of this silk is the most useful asset in the wardrobe.

The dress illustrated can be made from plain or figured material. The front trimming is so arranged as to give a long panel effect. The serged skirt joins the waist under a belt of the material.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A pattern of this dress may be had in three sizes—for girls from fourteen to eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number (454), and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail.

When Polly Thrilled.

By GRACE MORTON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

The girl's hand lay quietly in the strong, brown palm.

"Is there no response in your heart?" queried the young fellow, tightening his clasp as he gazed into the brown eyes that gave him back the look of a troubled child.

"I am afraid not, Ned," answered the girl reluctantly; "not any more than there is here." She nodded her golden head toward the imprisoned fingers. "By all accepted rules I should feel a thrill at your touch if I loved you, and I don't—not a bit of a one."

Ned dropped the hand that did not "thrill" promptly and dug holes in the sand with his bare heel strenuously as he said, with a huge sigh, "You are absolutely heartless. I do believe, Polly."

"Not so," replied the girl, combing up some straying love-locks and setting her bathing cap at a more bewitching angle. "I am only young and well satisfied with this good old world just as it is at present." And Polly nonchalantly plied the wet sand in a circle and watched an imprisoned sand jumper's ineffectual attempts at escape.

"That's just the way you've got me," remarked Ned gloomily as he gazed at the little creature.

"Nonsense!" answered Polly as with a long, flying leap the jumper got away.

HIS CHIN CAME DOWN SEARPLY ON THE RING.

"I couldn't keep him, you see"—and mischief twinkled in her eyes as she sprang to her feet—"but I'll promise you one thing, Ned"—Polly extended her firm white hand, full of sand, toward the young man—"if ever this does thrill I'll tell you first of any one. Come on and don't be so tragic. I'll race you to the raft once more."

Ned ducked just in time to escape the sand she aimed at him and stumbled after the flying figure in its trim black suit.

Polly was the best girl swimmer at the beach, and Ned had his work cut out for him. They landed at the raft side by side, to the delight of two half grown lads who were eagerly watching the race.

"You're a dandy, miss," said the younger boy admiringly as he extended his hand to help her on the raft with the freemasonry of bathers.

"My, but they are fierce today," panted Polly, grasping Ned's arm to keep from sliding as an extra big wave tilted the heavy raft at an alarming angle.

"We had better get back before the tide turns," said Ned. "There's no time to be a big underdog with such a sea on. As soon as you are rested, Polly, we had better start. What is it, Jim?" he asked as the boy drew near.

"Wish you'd show me friend," jerking his thumb at the heavy built lad of seventeen, "that double back dive I seen you do the other day," the boy said, with a grin parting his freckles.

"Sure thing," replied Ned obligingly. Jim was the lobster man's boy.

"It pays to stand in with the powers that be," murmured Polly. "Think of our lunches, Ned, and put on your best form."

Ned had a "corking physique," as the girl phrased it, and as he left the springboard, turning his two somersaults and cleaving the water neatly, Polly gloried in his muscular strength and beauty of line as she would in that of a thoroughbred horse.

"I feel the undertow. The tide has turned," said Ned as he came up spluttering at the corner of the raft. He caught hold of the big iron ring on the side of the wood to pull himself up just as a huge wave struck him fair and square between the shoulders. As it receded his chin came down sharply on the ring. In a flash the man disappeared like a plummet.

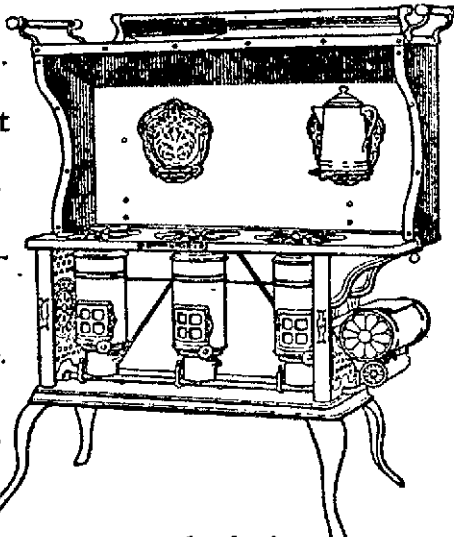

Polly gasped when no dark head reappeared. "Quick, quick!" she cried. "He is stunned, Oh, Ned!"

One agonized glance at the slender boy and the lout of a fisher lad showed her how much help they would be.

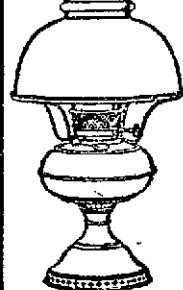

"Under the raft—the undertow. Oh, my God!" screamed the frantic girl. A band of ice seemed to be around her brow; then suddenly her wits were clear once more. Grabbing up the heavy safety rope, she tied it around her waist.

"Take it," she commanded the boys sharply, "and pull quick when I pull I am going under the raft after him."

She slid down to the green depths. A few strokes to the left, and she was in the blank darkness under the raft. An instant's frantic clutching here and there—and then, thank God, she had the neck of Ned's bathing suit in her desperate grasp.

She pulled wildly on the rope, swimming and tugging at the same time. The boys answered her. The heavy edge of the raft scraped the girl cruelly as they tugged, and she had no strength to clear it, but she held the inert form tightly in a half unconscious grip.

Out at last! Oh, that blessed first gulp of air! Jim's cries had brought the life squad, and willing hands eased her of her burden, and as they lifted her into the boat Polly collapsed.

Everything was dreamlike after that until she found herself in bed in her room at the hotel. She dimly remembered being assured that Ned was all right, and she smiled faintly as Brother Bob said: "Cheer up. We have got a heroine in the family at last." Then she slept the sound sleep of exhaustion until the following afternoon.

"Best thing for her," said the doctor in answer to her mother's anxious inquiries. And so it proved. With the exception of a few bruises Polly was all right when she awoke, and after a meal served in her room she donned a most fetching pale pink gown that gave a becoming flush to her rather pale cheeks and sent for Bob.

"You look pretty fit, after all, sis," said Bob. "There is mischief brewing. I can tell by the glint in your eye."

"Nonsense," replied Polly. "Do something for me, there's a good boy. I want to see Ned, and I can't stand it to face all those people tonight. You might mention that I am going up to Pine cliff after dinner, but for goodness' sake don't let him know that I want him to come." The color rose clear to her pretty brown eyes as Bob began to grin.

"Now, be good," she coaxed, "and don't tease. I'll make you a dandy pillow if you will."

"It's a go," said Bob. "I'd rather fancy him for a brother-in-law," shutting the door just in time to escape Polly's powder puff.

After dusk Polly managed to escape unseen by the back door and made her way with beating heart to the cliff.

There was a cozy sheltered seat for two facing the ocean about halfway down the rocks, and there she found as she expected, Ned awaiting her.

The moon's radiant pathway ended at the base of the cliff, and as Polly descended the path she looked like a fair goddess in her filmy gown to the young fellow who watched her with eager eyes.

When they met Polly was surprised to find herself incapable of speech. Ned grasped both her hands and gently kissed first one, then the other, without saying a word.

He must have felt a subtle difference in their touch, for after one quick look at the shivering girl he knew—and, knowing, blessed the world and Polly.

After a long, long talk, interspersed with happy silences, Polly raised her face, illumined by the moon's soft sheen, and the brown eyes twinkled with their old teasing light as she laid her hand on Ned's and said softly, "I suppose I must keep my promise, Ned." Then the love light shone above the mischief as she added, "I really believe I felt a thrill."

The Fire Cure.

The belief is general throughout a large part of China that the insane are under the influence of evil spirits. In their endeavors to cure afflicted patients the Chinese doctors, so called administer a medicine which produces violent and distressing vomiting with the idea of having the patient throw off the insanity. The proper care of the insane is almost unknown. It is a common custom, if a member of the household becomes unmanageable or troublesome, to chain him to a post or heavy stone in the house. Dr. Selden, a missionary physician in southern China, writing on the subject in the China Medical Missionary Journal says that he recently saw a woman in Canton who had thus been chained about the neck for fifteen years. There is no intention of cruelty in this, but knowing nothing about the nature of the malady there is nothing else to do but to frequently, in order to determine whether a person is really insane or only obstinate, a piece of wick soaked in oil is placed under the thumb nails and lighted, with the result that the thumbs are often badly burned.

Welding Copper

In last week's issue we published an account of a demonstration in welding copper by George J. Henry, a blacksmith of Bellwood, which secret (?) Mr. Henry zealously guards. The attention of our master metal worker and all-around mechanical genius, James Pepple, was called to the matter, when he said he had been able to weld copper for several years. He went to the well-equipped repair shop in Dill's garage in the rear of the Union Hotel and made a couple links of copper, which links have been presented The Gazette and may be seen at our office.

Entertainment at Wolfburg

The Wolfburg Methodist Brotherhood, Chapter No. 282, will give an entertainment in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, May 26, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend. The entertainment will consist of essays, recitations, short talks and music by a quartet.

The Brotherhood is apart from the church, but is of great benefit to the young men socially, religiously and morally. The chapter was organized during the past winter, has about 20 members, and is growing rapidly.

The Weather Test Proves B. P. S. the Best.

Any paint looks well when first applied. The proof of quality lies in the way paint lasts through freezing, thawing, hail, rain, and the blistering heat of summer.

B. P. S. STANDS THE TEST

The best of materials, carefully mixed and thoroughly ground, make B. P. S. a weather-resisting paint that, when properly applied, will not wash off, chalk, crack nor peel when the weather gets at it.

BUY THE BEST—IT PAYS

Ask your dealer to send us a postal for our B. P. S. Paint Budget—a package of paint information.
